

New students and their luggage waiting for luggage to be unloaded from the bus as they arrive on campus for the first time.

From left to right, newly arrived students pose for a group photo with the national athletes representing Malaysia in the upcoming SEA Games.

The five new students are joining the 2,327 who registered at Universiti Malaysia Terengganu.

Students pose a mascot tiger and walk across all areas of the campus.

By LEE CHONGHUI
lee@star.com.my

ARMED with only a suitcase of two brown suitcases and the contents of their back packs, some female students and their families headed into the morning sun at the University of Malaya (UM) with the hope of creating a better future for themselves.

New study journeys

Thousands move into residential halls at the country's 20 public universities as they start their undergraduate degree programmes.

They are from the Orang Asli community in the Gub, the Malay Peninsula. It is a 100km from the Malay Peninsula and takes 100 hours to reach them. The UM has an and 24 teams during the week with 1000.

Wahid Sisters Zambra Inghil and Sakhia are new students at UM. Inghil, from left, and Sakhia, from right, are settling into their dormitory rooms at UM.

UM is the first public university in Malaysia to offer a Bachelor of Science in Information Systems (BScIS) programme. The programme is a four-year undergraduate degree programme. The programme is a four-year undergraduate degree programme. The programme is a four-year undergraduate degree programme.

Students registering for courses in Dewan Sultan Ismail at Universiti Teknologi Malaysia (UTM). A total of 2,568 new students registered last Sunday at its main campus in Port Klang and the Puchong branch campus.

My goals are simple and realistic: perform well and graduate with a good job, get a job, and most importantly enjoy my life." He said, adding that perseverance is important.

Students are being helped to settle into their residential halls at Universiti Teknologi Malaysia (UTM). The students attended the Student Transformation Week that started on Friday (7/9/19) at the University of Malaya (UM) and the University of Malaya (UM) and the University of Malaya (UM).